"GIST AND GIST MAN" PRESS CLUB GUEST

J. P. McEvoy, Former South Bend Newspaper Man, Accepts Invitation.

J. P. McEvoy of the staff of the Chicago Herald, who like Ring W. Lardner of the Chicago Tribune, left South Bend to make a success as a sport humorist in "the windy city," today informed Press Irvin Dolk of the South Bend Press club, that he will be glad to be a guest of the club for its Daniels dinner the night of May 29. Mr. McEvoy, who conducts the column "The Gist and Jest of It" on the sporting page of the Herald, will be asked to make a few readings at the dinner. Secy of the Navy Josephus Daniels will be the principal speaker and Ring Lardner is expected to introduce some of his own brand of humor. Hon. Rome C. Stephenson will be toastmaster.

Mr. McEvoy's letter, a gem, in which he accepts the invitation to attend the dinner, is as follows: "Dear Irvin—Please dust off your band and red fire. I will be down there en masse the p. m. of the 29th, but I absolutely refuse to speak any lines. I will scuffle Lardner and blow up founding hospitals and steal gold teeth from the working goids, but torture an audience of my best friends by an extemporaneous speech I've hatched weeks before? Never!"

"And I appreciate your invitation. Of course Press' Cavanaugh and Secy Daniels will be flustered when I show up—especially 'Cav'—but that's the chance they take. As for that 'going out after the big ones' clause in your letter—blushes and raptures! and hush!"

"Which just about closes the case. Don't forget the prop band and the red fire—unless you prefer to meet me with a posse."

Approximately 300 invitations to the dinner were mailed to South Bend people today. Each member of the press club was permitted to hand in the names of a certain number of people he wished to have invited. The invitations ask that those desiring to accept, get in touch with members of the ticket committee, which comprises R. M. Hutchinson, chairman; Jacob R. Irminger, L. V. Van Cleave, E. H. Horst, C. H. Hatch, C. N. Pollock, Kenneth Todd and Wilber R. Armstrong.
